*As a father has compassion on his children, so the Lord has compassion on those who fear him;

Fear Him Fathers

The Northern Maine Land Man emailed me this morning. You can catch his LIVEstream every Friday morning at 9 AM EST at www.michaelheath.org. Roger Ek is a war hero who piloted helos for the Seawolves. He flew over 500 successful missions in the Mekong Delta during the Vietnam War. He knows a thing or two about fear ... especially fearing God since he is also a dedicated and courageous Christian. He emailed me this quote from "The Tipping Point", "MacArthur returned from Korea to a conquering hero's reception: ticker-tape parades and a speech to a joint session of Congress. The pledge he made and kept to 'just fade away' belied the contention that he had tried to usurp the Constitution, and bolstered the two warnings he left his fellow citizens. First, 'In war, there is no substitute for victory.' Forgetting something so very basic had been no mere mistake, but a symptom of moral decay. Hence his other warning: 'History fails to record a single precedent in which nations subject to moral decay have not passed into political and economic decline. There has been either a spiritual awakening to overcome the moral lapse, or a progressive deterioration leading to ultimate national disaster.'" I love the choice of words here. A "progressive deterioration." We are surely seeing that as the proud Godless, globalist Left even lays claim to the label "progressive." So what is required for a nation to pull out of a downward moral spiral? A strong man for President? Nope. More redistribution of wealth by the government? Nope. Free health care? Nope. More immigration? Nope. Another war? Nope. What MacArthur KNEW is that there is only one way to pull out. A SPIRITUAL AWAKENING. And in the West that doesn't mean more Buddhist meditation, Islamic chants or Yoga exercises. It means a return to Christianity. It means repentance. And ... so ... on this Fathers Day may I be so bold as to suggest that we could start studying the masculine virtues. There was no greater example in American history of manly virtues than General Douglas MacArthur. He knew that you didn't don skinny jeans to show off your junk to the girls if you want to lead men. He was known for stepping up to the front line of fire during a battle to stand defiantly before the enemy daring them to shoot him. Syrupy womanish worship songs led by prancing metrosexuals proudly displaying tats does nothing but rob men of their spirit. No, if a spiritual awakening is going to come it will be lead by men who are on the offense against the devil and his demons. They will wear the cross like the badge of honor it is. Find a man like that locally who is storming the gates of hell and follow him. You'll learn more from him than you will from a million X-perts.
