They also that erred in spirit shall come to understanding, and they that murmured shall learn doctrine. Isaiah 29:24

The Rising of Prophets

I am more hopeful about the future for the West and my Nation than ever before in my lifetime. The gloom of pop futurism is lifting off my soul. My walk on the narrow path with Jesus Christ always seemed to be coming out of an idyllic American post WWII boom into a culturally war torn, shattered landscape. Up ahead it seemed He was walking me into a WWI battlefield full of artillery craters, shattered trees and rotting corpses. It wasn't that way materially. It was that way culturally, psychologically and spiritually. My mind and soul were conditioned to expect things to get worse and worse SO THAT Jesus could return just in time to snatch the elect, while He left behind the unsaved.

We all turn away now from the predictors. You know ... the "prophets" who tell us when He's coming back, or what to expect in the next decade or century. They've been wrong every single time, at least about the big stuff.

This gloomy mood is lifting from my mind and soul because of what I see among the young of the world. So many of them are coming home. They are turning to family, history, religion, technology, art, literature and reason to find a way forward through this ideological hell-scape created for them by their "betters."

We older folk always have a duty to serve as their "betters." It is our job to focus them on what's important, and to help them ignore what doesn't matter. We can do that because we have more experience in life than them. This experience, combined with a reasonable devotion, is wisdom. We must not abandon our children and grandchildren now. They need us close. They want us close — more than you know in your false "retirement" mindset.

For generations the family has been under assault from the most virulent strain of ideological cancer ever unleashed on mankind by satan and his demons. My wife, who is in the fight of her life right now against biological cancer, informed me of the fact that cancer cells have the capacity to morph into whatever cell they need to be to accomplish their deadly objective. The same is true of modern and post modern ideologies that have come home to roost in their birthplace — the West.

The most bloody, totalitarian and proven unworkable of these is communism. The Left in the West likes to play footsie with it. They pretend they aren't willing to go all the way to what the Soviets imposed on all the people behind the Iron Curtain for most of the twentieth century. I don't believe them. With their new censorship regime powering up they now appear perfectly willing to go there if men wearing dresses can be empowered to teach infants how to twerk in public libraries.

They are losing. Appearances are deceiving. They have all but lost already. I don't know what is going to replace the Communist Bush/Clinton Cabal on the Left, but I know it isn't going to look anything like what our current crop of politically powerful criminals — both Republican and Democrat — have been leading us towards for generations.

Only God knows the future.

The best thing all of us can do right now is learn about our history, especially through the lens of our own ancestors. I've wanted to do this myself for many years, but I haven't taken the time. Every time I have taken the time to go there with my mom or dad it's been rewarding. I gain so much understanding from learning about my family's past ... from appreciating the unique life quests of the people whose blood courses through my veins. In my case that would include people who came here on a ship called Mayflower.

I'm among the freshly damned in the New America being formed by the morbidly rich and powerful utopian multiculturalists. I'm the most despicable human on the planet. I'm an Anglo-Saxon Protestant White Guy. I'm pure evil, if you're to believe the West's rising "intelligentsia," nourished by the obscenely unjust economic fruits of the rotting corpse of the British Empire.

We are entering a new age of prophets, not profits. These new prophets are forthtellers, not foretellers. They are prophets in the Biblical sense. They speak truth to power. And the power that is most needful of confrontation right now is the power of the pulpits of the West. Trump isn't going to save the West from itself. If Western Civilization is to be saved then it will be the pulpits of Christianity that do the saving. We must stop protecting the priests and pastors from the consequences of their psychologizing. We must demand that they go to the streets with their sermons. Not the airwaves. The streets.

The truth is fallen in THE STREETS of the West. It isn't fallen in the false virtual "communities" we've formed for ourselves through the media. It is fallen in public ... IN THE STREETS. It isn't completely fallen in the stained glassed fortresses we call churches, though it is on life support. No, the truth is fallen in the streets. We must expect our pastors and priests to contend for the faith of our fathers in every marketplace of ideas everywhere. That's their job.

This is a quest worth living, a battle worth fighting ... a war worth winning.

And Jesus Christ is always winning, no matter what deception satan employs in the moment.

Selah.
